DEATH OF CAPT. JOHN F. FELL

John B. Fell, a retired sea captain of this City, died early yesterday morning in the Grand Hotel, in the eighty-third year of his age. Mr. Fell was a man of the sea, and after his retirement from active service he was remarkably active for his age until a few days ago when he began to grow feeble. The death of the former commodore of the third sea regiment, John H. Fell and Frederick A. Fell, two of his grandsons, are residents of this City, and two of his daughters, Mrs. J. M. W. and Mrs. J. A. M., are also friends of the family.

DEATH OF CAPT. JOHN F. FELL

John B. Fell, a retired sea captain of this City, died early yesterday morning in the Grand Hotel, in the eighty-third year of his age. Mr. Fell was a man of the sea, and after his retirement from active service he was remarkably active for his age until a few days ago when he began to grow feeble. The death of the former commodore of the third sea regiment, John H. Fell and Frederick A. Fell, two of his grandsons, are residents of this City, and two of his daughters, Mrs. J. M. W. and Mrs. J. A. M., are also friends of the family.

JAPANESE FOUND ITS "V" very

After breakfasting at the Imperial Hotel, the Emperor Hirohito and his suite embarked on a trip to the provinces. This was the first time that the imperial visit had taken place since the war.

FEARFUL DESTRUCTION

The destruction caused by the war was immense. The city of Tokyo was almost completely destroyed. The Emperor and his suite were received with great solemnity at the imperial palace of Kyoto.

TRAINS ON THE ELEVATED

New York.---The elevated trains on Sundays are a problem. The system of running trains on Sundays is a great innovation, but it is not without its difficulties.

ALDERMEN IN CRISIS

The cases of Aldermen Leffingwell and Alderman Sharp, both of whom were indicted for receiving bribes, were still pending in court. The Aldermen in this case were accused of accepting gifts of money in return for influence in their office. The cases were still pending in court.